Come see the newly completed project. This project is an adaptive reuse of an existing movie theater from 1929, plus an adjacent commercial building and grey-stone 2-flat. The 1929 design included elements of Neoclassical and Spanish Revival architecture, such as extensive terra cotta ornamentation, a frieze spanning the length of the building, and plaster detailing on the interior.

Ramova now includes a live performance venue with a capacity for 1,800 people, an on-site brewery and tap room, and The Ramova Grill, all bringing a mix of world class entertainment experiences and community focused programming to Bridgeport. The Ramova will offer an impressive set of live performances, closely planned community events to create a new gathering place for The South Side.

The interiors of the entry lobby, concessions and auditorium, along with the South Halsted Street exterior facade rehabilitation work earned the building a place on the National Register of Historic Places in December 2021.
